Eggstravaganza!

Renee hiked up her fancy dress, getting ready to run. Her brother Kaleb was bent low next to her, like a runner before a race.

"Ready, and... go!" shouted their grandma. The kids took off like a rocket, holding their baskets tightly as they ran through the yard. They pushed and shoved, trying to be first in line of all their cousins.

Renee screamed with excitement when she stumbled upon a big blue egg under the slide. Finding a big egg was always an extra thrill because Grandma always filled the big eggs with lots of extra candy!

Meanwhile, Kaleb scooped up three or four smaller eggs that he found in the sandbox and shoved them into his basket, but he kept looking.

Every year, there's only one golden egg hidden in Grandma's yard. The kid who found it earned a special prize- but no one could find it this year! They searched, and searched, but couldn't find it anywhere in the yard. Finally, Kaleb noticed Sandy the dog munching away on something.

"Sandy!" Grandma yelled, exasperated. The kids cracked up. Looks like Sandy the dog found the golden egg this year!
